OVERVIEW

Michelle joins Greene Espel after practicing for multiple years in a national law firm in San Francisco, where she focused on employment law and employment litigation. Prior to that, Michelle clerked for the Honorable Joan N. Ericksen in the United States District of Minnesota. Michelle's experience allows her to provide clients with well-rounded and practical advice during all phases of litigation. Clients have particularly praised Michelle's ability to remain calm and decisive during heated matters, obtaining optimal outcomes.

Michelle graduated from Stanford Law School, where she obtained pro bono distinction. She earned her Bachelor of Arts degree in Political Science from the University of California Berkeley with high honors.
